

Reading 23: Financial Reporting Standards

Question #1 of 30

Question ID: 414048

Required financial statements, according to International Accounting Standard (IAS) No. 1, include a(n):

- ☐ A) income statement and working capital summary.
- ☐ B) cash flow statement and auditor's report.
- ☒ C) balance sheet and explanatory notes.

Explanation

Financial statements that are required by IAS No. 1 include a balance sheet, a statement of comprehensive income, a cash flow statement, a statement of changes in owners' equity, and explanatory notes that include a summary of the company's accounting policies. IAS No. 1 does not require an auditor's report or a working capital summary.

Significant accounting choices are most likely to be disclosed in the management commentary under:

- ☐ A) U.S. GAAP only.
- ☒ B) both U.S. GAAP and IFRS.
- ☐ C) IFRS only.

Explanation

Significant accounting policies and estimates that require management judgment must be disclosed in the management commentary (sometimes called Management Discussion and Analysis) under both IFRS and U.S. GAAP.

Question #3 of 30

Question ID: 414036

Which of the following statements about financial statements and reporting standards is least accurate?

- ✓ A) Reporting standards focus mostly on format and presentation and allow management wide latitude in assumptions.
- X B) The objective of financial statements is to provide economic decision makers with useful information.
- X C) Financial statements could potentially take any form if reporting standards didn't exist.

Explanation

Given the variety and complexity of possible transactions, and the estimates and assumptions a firm must make when presenting its performance, financial statements could potentially take any form if reporting standards didn't exist. Reporting standards ensure that the information is "useful to a wide range of users," including security analysts, by making financial statements comparable to one another and narrowing the range within which management's estimates can be seen as reasonable. Reporting standards limit the range of assumptions management can make.

Question #4 of 30

Question ID: 414056

A firm engages in a new type of financial transaction that has a material effect on its earnings. An analyst should most likely be suspicious of the new transaction if:

- ✓ A) management has not explained its business purpose.
- X B) the transaction is not governed by existing regulations.
- X C) no accounting standard exists that applies to the transaction.

Explanation

New types of transactions may emerge that are not covered by existing accounting standards or regulations. Analysts should obtain information from a firm's management about the economic substance of such transactions to ensure that they serve a business purpose and have not been created primarily to manipulate the firm's financial statements.

The term "convergence" is most accurately used to describe:

- X A) the reduction of the premium on a bond as it nears maturity.
- ✓ B) the process of developing one universally accepted set of accounting standards.
- X C) when expected return and required return are equal.

Explanation

Moving towards agreement on a single set of accounting standards is referred to as "convergence."

Question ID: 414047

Which of the following is least likely a qualitative characteristic accounting information must possess in order to provide useful information to an analyst, according to the IASB Conceptual Framework?

- X A) Faithful representation.
- ✓ B) Conservatism.
- X C) Relevance.

Explanation

Qualitative characteristics that accounting information must possess according to the IASB Conceptual Framework are relevance and faithful representation, which are enhanced by the characteristics of timeliness, verifiability, understandability, and comparability. Conservatism may be a desirable characteristic, but is not one of the qualitative characteristics specified in the IASB Conceptual Framework.

Question #7 of 30

Question ID: 434268

An analyst can find a company's accounting policies that require significant judgement or estimates in:

- X A) both the footnotes and in the auditor's opinion.
- ✓ B) both the footnotes to the financial statements and Management's Discussion and Analysis.
- X C) only the footnotes.

Explanation

Companies that prepare financial statements under IFRS or U.S. GAAP must disclose their accounting policies and estimates in the footnotes and address those policies and estimates where significant judgment was required in Management's Discussion and Analysis. The auditor's opinion discusses whether policies have been applied appropriately, but does not include the estimates and policies themselves.

Question ID: 414052

Which of the following statements about the elements of financial statements under the FASB and IASB frameworks is least accurate?

- ✓ A) The IASB framework does not allow the values of assets to be adjusted upward.
- X B) The IASB framework lists income and expenses as the elements related to performance.
- X C) The word "probable" is used by the FASB to define assets and liabilities.

Explanation

Differences in financial statement elements include: (1) The IASB framework lists income and expenses as the elements related to performance, while the FASB framework uses revenues, expenses, gains, losses, and comprehensive income. (2) FASB defines an asset as a future economic benefit, where IASB defines it as a resource from which a future economic benefit is expected. (3) The word "probable" is used by the FASB to define assets and liabilities. (4) The FASB framework does not allow the values of most assets to be adjusted upward.

Question ID: 414038

Professional organizations of accountants and auditors that establish financial reporting standards are called:

- ✓ A) Standard setting bodies.
- X B) International organizations of securities commissions.
- X C) Regulatory authorities.

Explanation

Standard-setting bodies are professional organizations of accountants and auditors that establish financial reporting standards. Regulatory authorities are government agencies that have the legal authority to enforce compliance with financial reporting standards. Regulatory authorities, such as the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) in the U.S. and the Financial Services Authority (FSA) in the United Kingdom, are established by national governments. Most national authorities belong to the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO).

Question ID: 414035

Which description of the objective of financial statements is most accurate? The objective of financial statements is:

- ☐ A) to provide securities analysts with objective data about a firm's financial prospects.
- ☐ B) to provide a wide range of users with information about a firm's financial prospects.

- ✓ C) to provide economic decision makers with useful information about a firm's financial performance and changes in financial position.

Explanation

The objective of financial statements is to provide economic decision makers with useful information about a firm's financial performance and changes in financial position. Assessing its prospects is the responsibility of analysts. Financial statements fall under the purview of the FASB in the US, not the IASB. The SEC does not set the objectives of financial statements, it is a regulatory authority.

Characteristics of a coherent financial reporting framework are best described as:

- ✗ A) materiality, comprehensiveness, and aggregation.
- ✗ B) consistency, materiality, and transparency.
- ✓ C) transparency, consistency, and comprehensiveness.

Explanation

The three characteristics of a coherent financial reporting framework are transparency, comprehensiveness, and consistency. Materiality and aggregation are two of the features for preparing financial statements listed in International Accounting Standard No. 1.

- ✗ A) IASB framework.
- ✗ B) Both IASB and FASB frameworks.
- ✓ C) FASB framework.

Explanation

The FASB framework lists revenues, expenses, gains, losses, and comprehensive income as elements related to performance. In the IASB framework, elements related to performance are income and expenses.

Disagreements that inhibit development of a coherent financial reporting framework are least likely to involve which of the following?

- X A) Valuation.
- X B) Standard setting.
- ✓ C) Transparency.

Explanation

There is widespread agreement that transparency is desirable in financial reporting. Disagreements that inhibit development of a single framework often arise around issues of measurement, valuation, and standard setting.

Question ID: 414057

Management disclosure of the likely impact of implementing recently issued accounting standards is least likely to:

- ✓ A) state that the impact of the standard is impossible to determine.
- X B) conclude that the standard will not affect the financial statements materially.
- X C) conclude that the standard does not apply.

Explanation

A disclosure that is required for public companies is the likely impact of implementing recently issued accounting standards. Management can discuss the impact of adopting the standard, conclude that the standard does not apply or will not affect the financial statements materially, or state that they are still evaluating the effects of the new standards. Analysts should be aware of the uncertainty that this last statement implies.

Question ID: 414042

Which of the following is most likely to be considered a barrier to developing one universally recognized set of reporting standards?

- ✓ A) Different standard-setting bodies of different countries disagree on the best treatment of a particular issue.
- X B) Reluctance of firms to adhere to a single set of reporting standards.
- X C) GATT already requires sufficient agreement.

Explanation

A principal obstacle to agreement on a single set of reporting standards is that various standard-setting bodies and regulatory authorities disagree on what the standards should be. Firms generally support the idea because it would reduce the cost of reporting. GATT is the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and does not relate to financial reporting.

Which of the following financial reporting choices is permitted under IFRS but not under U.S. GAAP?

- ☐ A) Excluding actuarial gains and losses from balance sheet pension items.
- ☒ B) Revaluing plant and equipment upward.
- ☐ C) Netting deferred tax assets with deferred tax liabilities.

Explanation

Upward revaluation of long-lived assets is permitted under IFRS. Under U.S. GAAP, most assets (other than certain financial instruments) may not be revalued upward. Neither netting deferred tax assets with deferred tax liabilities nor excluding actuarial gains and losses from balance sheet pension items is permitted under IFRS or U.S. GAAP.

Question ID: 414040

Which of the following is least likely to be considered a stated goal of the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB)?

- ☐ A) Develop global accounting standards requiring transparency, comparability, and high quality in financial statements.
- ☐ B) Account for the needs of emerging markets and small firms when implementing global accounting standards.
- ☒ C) Remain neutral in the debate on the use of global accounting standards to avoid appearance of a conflict of interest.

Explanation

The IASB has four stated goals:

1. Develop global accounting standards requiring transparency, comparability, and high quality in financial statements.
2. Promote the use of global accounting standards.
3. Account for the needs of emerging markets and small firms when implementing global accounting standards.
4. Achieve convergence between various national accounting standards and global accounting standards.

Which of the following is a company least likely required to present according to International Accounting Standard (IAS) No. 1?

- ☐ A) Statement of changes in owners' equity.
- ☐ B) A summary of accounting policies.
- ☒ C) Disclosures of material events.

Explanation

International Accounting Standard (IAS) No. 1 defines which financial statements are required and how they must be presented.

The required financial statements are:

- Balance sheet.
- Statement of comprehensive income.
- Cash flow statement.
- Statement of changes in equity.
- Explanatory notes, including a summary of accounting policies.

Disclosures of material events that affect the company are required by the Securities and Exchange Commission (Form 8-K) for firms that are publicly traded in the United States.

An analyst is least likely to use disclosures of accounting policies and estimates to evaluate:

- ☐ A) whether the disclosures have changed since the prior period.
- ☐ B) what policies are discussed.
- ☒ C) what policies are likely to be modified in future periods.

Explanation

Companies that prepare financial statements under IFRS or U.S. GAAP must disclose their accounting policies and estimates in the footnotes and Management's Discussion and Analysis. An analyst should use these disclosures to evaluate what policies are discussed, whether they cover all the relevant data in the financial statements, which policies required management to make estimates, and whether the disclosures have changed since the prior period.

Which of the following statements about financial reporting standards is least accurate? Reporting standards:

- ☐ A) narrow the range within which management estimates can be seen as reasonable.
- ☐ B) ensure that the information is "useful to a wide range of users."
- ☒ C) are disclosed on Form 8K by publicly traded firms in the United States.

Explanation

Reporting standards ensure that the information is "useful to a wide range of users," including security analysts, by making financial statements comparable to one another and narrowing the range within which management's estimates can be seen as reasonable. Securities & Exchange Commission Form 8K addresses acquisitions, divestitures, etc. and not reporting standards.

When a publicly traded U.S. company prepares a proxy statement for its shareholders prior to the annual meeting or other shareholder vote, it also files the statement with the SEC as Form:

- ☒ A) DEF-14A.
- ☐ B) 144.
- ☐ C) 8-K.

Explanation

Form DEF-14A: When a company prepares a proxy statement for its shareholders prior to the annual meeting or other shareholder vote, it also files the statement with the SEC as Form DEF-14A.

Form 8-K: Companies must file this form to disclose material events including significant asset acquisitions and disposals, changes in management or corporate governance, or matters related to its accountants, financial statements, or the markets on which its securities trade.

Form 144: A company can issue securities to certain qualified buyers without registering the securities with the SEC, but must notify the SEC that it intends to do so.
